1. RLG International, Project Managers, National & International locations

Implement. Facilitate. Coach. Do you want to make a difference and go beyond consulting? At RLG International we go beyond the traditional partnership of a consulting firm by coaching individuals, teams, and companies to find innovative ways to "connect the front line to the bottom line." Our work enables employees at all levels to become involved and to realize the gains from their contribution. Since 1983 RLG has led over 750 business performance projects worldwide for multinationals in mining, energy, refining, pulp and paper, agriculture, manufacturing, distribution, transportation, finance, and information technology. We are, without a doubt, a different kind of consulting firm.

RLG Project Managers coach for success. We use specific processes to implement significant behavioral changes that affect performance. The qualifications for a Project Manager include a Masters degree in business or a related field, at least 7-10 years full-time work experience, proven success working with people from shop floor to senior management, and previous experience in consulting, project management, facilitation, or coaching. Unlike other consultants we and our families relocate to project sites in North America for the duration of the assignments, usually ranging in length from 18 to 24 months. This commitment allows us to focus exclusively on the client company, integrate with the employees, and work with them to achieve long-term sustainable change. The key to the RLG process of winning is a strong desire to make a significant difference with and through people.

Immediate opportunities currently exist. Please submit your resume, quoting file #0503-VJ, via e-mail to: apply@rlginternational.com.
